TURKISH CINEMA TV INSTITUTE ANNUAL REPORT '85

ACQUISITION OF THE YEAR

Our stock of nitrate films which includes films on Atatürk war of independence and some first Turkish films has totalled to 300.000 meters in 1985. A separate special archive building was built for the purpose of preservation of nitrate films.

A new sound recording studio and a video studio where also added to the premises of the institute.

The training staff and students of the institute produced two documentary shorts on F.Fellini and O.Welles within the scope of the "Examples From The World Cinema" broadcasted by the Turkish Television.

Also for the Turkish Tv the institute has started making of "The History Of The Turkish Cinema" to be composed of 16 parts. The first five parts have already been shown.

Shorts on Fellini and Welles and the History of the Turkish Cinema have all been directed by Mr.Şekeroğlu.

PRESERVATION

The archives and laboratories are being run by specially trained students. Aside from performing the laboratory processes of film for the Turkish Cinema and Television, these students also take part in repairing and maintaining work of nitrate films. Of these nitrate films, dupes are made and printed by wet printing system.

Satisfactory results have been attained through utilisation of the slow moving printer modified by Mr.Şekeroğlu and Mr.Aragon.

Quite a considerable footage consisting of films about the period of Atatürk, war of independence and republic have thus been saved.

EXHIBITION

An exhibition presenting the antique cinema equipments has been opened in the entrance hall of our Institute.
