THE EVENTS

Symposium - Cinema 1900-1906

Originally we planned to consider all the films produced during this period and discuss the inter-relationship between fact and fiction. As it turned out, however, members' response to our requests for fiction films was so overwhelming that we decided to limit our discussions to the fiction films of this period.

We made one further compromise. We could not afford to import all the films into Britain and therefore agreed to accept Eileen Bowser's generous offer to organise the pre-selection of films - mainly from the Library of Congress Paper Print Collection - which were already located in America. Her selection group consisted of Paul Spehr, Jon Gutenberg, Tom Gunning, John Fell (a specialist in popular culture of the period), David Levy from McGill University in Montreal and John Hagan (a graduate student at New York University under Jay Leyda), with additional help from Jay Leyda himself, Russell Merritt (Head of the Cinema Department at the University of Wisconsin), Ron Mottram, Lucy Fisher and Charles Musser. They chose 189 titles, which were included in the screenings of other films organised for the advisers whose names appear on page 3 between 22nd - 26th May at the Brighton Film Theatre. The films included in the four sessions are those selected by the advisers during these screenings.

We have received numerous papers, some prepared for other purposes, others resulting from pre-selection screenings, and these have been circulated to all delegates. They are purely for study purposes and must not be reproduced except with the express approval of the authors. A full list appears below.

Brenda Davies and her staff have prepared a bibliography on the Cinema 1900-1906 and this will be circulated to delegates. All the discussions will be recorded and transcribed by the Secretariat in due course.

List of Papers

"The Evolution of Film Form up to 1906" by Barrie Salt, Department of Film, The Slade School of Fine Art, London

"The Non-Continuous Style of Early Film 1900-1906" by Tom Gunning, New York
"Camera Movement in Edison and Biograph Films 1900-1906" by Jon A. Gartenberg, Department of Film, Museum of Modern Art, New York

"The Fake Train Robbery: reconstituted newsreels, re-enactments and the American narrative film" by David Levy, McGill University, Montreal

"The Brighton Project: an introduction" by Eileen Bowser, Department of Film, Museum of Modern Art, New York

"Erotic Tendencies in Film 1900-1906" by John Hagan, New York University

"Simultaneous Action in Film 1900-1906" by John Hagan

"Theo Bouwmeester: English films directed (or possibly directed) by Theo Bouwmeester" by Geoffrey N. Donaldson, Rotterdam

"Articulation of Spatial Relationships in Designated Films 1900-1906" by John L. Fell, Department of Film, San Francisco State University

"James A. Williamson: an American view" by Martin Sopocy, New York

"The Early Cinema of Edwin Porter" by Charles Musser, New York

"Les Détours du Récit Filmique sur la Naissance du Montage Parallèle" by André Gaudrénault, Université Laval, Quebec

"The British Realist Film" by Clive Coultaas, Keeper of the Department of Film, Imperial War Museum, London

Symposium - Film to Videotape and Videotape to Film - The Present and the Future

This symposium has two basic functions: firstly to show how non-broadcast standard videotape can be used for access and research purposes in the Archive and how such tapes can be easily and cheaply produced utilising a Steenbeck or a projector; secondly to keep delegates up-to-date with developments in the tape industry which might have a future bearing on the safeguarding of film and television images.

The first session is devoted to transfers from videotape to film and is being organised by Bernard Happé, previously Technical Manager at Technicolor. He will explain the different transfer systems and show examples of B.B.C. programmes - the same extracts in each case - transferred by four different companies: Colour Video Services, Image Transform, Rank Video Centre and Technicolor.
We have also prepared a test reel running five minutes forty seconds, including examples of black and white and colour films preserved in the Archive, and ranging from 1900 to 1976. This test reel was transferred by the B.B.C. from 35mm film to 2-inch videotape and then four 2-inch copy tapes were made at the same time and sent to the laboratories previously listed, who generously agreed to transfer them to 16mm film (35mm in the case of Image Transform).

The transfers and the original films will be screened at the Brighton Film Theatre – when the transfer is 16mm it will be compared with a 16mm reduction made from the original 35mm film. A 16mm black and white film recording made by the B.B.C. will also be shown.

We have arranged a demonstration of projected television and short illustrated talks on the Rank film-to-film transfer process and the Philips videodisc. We will also be screening some interesting test films made by the National Film Board of Canada.

The second and third sessions, which will be held at the Learning Resources Centre at Brighton Polytechnic, will be devoted to the use of non-broadcast standard videotape in the Archive. They are being organised by Roderick Snell, Technical Facilities Manager at the Polytechnic, and will consist of workshop demonstrations, during which delegates will have an opportunity of making tapes from the output of both viewing machine and projector, and lectures which explain the difference between film and tape and show those more familiar with film how to read tape images and indicate the uses to which non-broadcast standard videotape can be put in an archive of moving pictures. There will also be a summary of the present state of the art and a proposal on how F.I.A.F. can avoid the problems created by the lack of an international standard in this area.

The same test reel used in the first session will be used for all demonstrations. The B.B.C. made a 1-inch copy of the original 2-inch transfer and all the other copies have been made from this. Once again, tape copies will be compared with the films from which they have been made.

Paper

"The Transfer of Videotape Recordings to Film: a review of current processes" by Bernard Happe
Britain: Image and Reality

This season has been organised by the Imperial War Museum, the National Film Archive and the Film Availability Services Department of the British Film Institute. The programme notes have been prepared by Paul Willemsen of F.A.S., and Clive Coulter, the Keeper of the Department of Film at the Imperial War Museum, will give a brief illustrated résumé of the aims of the season to delegates on Monday, 29th May at 17.00.

A few of the programmes are based on a season presented at the National Film Theatre last year entitled "Journey to a Legend and Back" and organised by Eva Orbanz of the Stiftung Deutsches Kinemathek. The other programmes have been designed to show delegates films or television programmes which they have had little opportunity of viewing in their own country. These consist of British avant garde films, the Independent Documentary movement of the Thirties and examples of television drama and dramatised documentaries.

Delegates can go to all these screenings free of charge but they must show their delegate badge at the Box Office to get a ticket.

Archive Night at the National Film Theatre

For the past year the National Film Archive has been organising an Archive Night in N.F.T. 2 every Friday. During May and June we decided to link Archive Night to the Congress and devote it to films chosen by archivists all over the world. A list of the films included appears below.

There will be a special exhibition of posters designed by Gerti Frölich for the Oesterreichisches Filmmuseum in the Theatre Clubroom from 17th May to 20th June, 1978.

Early Brighton Film Makers

This exhibition entitled "Early Brighton Film Makers", organised by the National Film Archive in conjunction with the Brighton Museum, contains artefacts and documents associated with the film makers
Esme Collings, George Albert Smith and James Williamson, the engineer
Alfred Darling and the entrepreneur William Friese-Greene, and shows through frame enlargements the technical innovations associated with the Brighton School. A videotape of the films themselves will be shown during the exhibition, which runs from 28th April to 4th June.
Exhibits were generously loaned by the Kodak Museum, the Science Museum and Samuelson Film Services.

Brighton and the Cinema

There will be a chance to see the work of the Brighton film makers in the opening programme "Brighton and the Cinema" which will take place at the Brighton Film Theatre on Sunday, 28th May at 19.30.

The programme will also include examples of Brighton as a film location and some fascinating records of life in Brighton since the turn of the century. Before the screening Sir John Read, Chairman of E.M.I., will formally declare the Congress open.
Television and the Congress

Both the B.B.C. and Southern Television have synchronised programmes about the early cinema with the Congress. The B.B.C. series BIOSCOPE DAYS consists of five programmes and the transmission dates are 10th, 17th, 24th and 31st May and 7th June.

The Southern Television programme, specifically about world fiction films between 1900-1906, will be shown on Friday, 26th May. The B.B.C. Radio programme TAKE FIVE, B.B.C. Radio Brighton and Southern Television will be interviewing delegates during the Congress. Articles on the Congress have already appeared in the Daily Mirror, The Times and the Brighton local papers, the Evening Argus and the Brighton and Hove Gazette. The B.B.C. television programme PEBBLE MILL AT ONE has also covered the Congress.

Publications

The International Index to Film Periodicals will have a stand in the antechamber of the Clarence Room on Sunday, 20th May and the morning of Monday, 21st May. (Thereafter, details of the publication can be obtained from the Congress Office).

Videotape Programme

A tape containing unidentified films will be available in Dorset 3, the room in the Dorset Suite which will be available to delegates as a meeting place during the Congress. If any delegate can identify any of the films, please make notes on the paper provided.

We also hope to have tapes of the Brighton film makers' films and the B.B.C. programmes mentioned previously.
Acknowledgments

So many individuals and organisations have helped us with the Congress that I am afraid a few names may escape the list. If this happens I would like to apologise to those concerned in advance - their help was nonetheless appreciated.

Starting with the organisations, I would like to thank the B.B.C. for undertaking the transfer of our test film and arranging for delegates to visit their film library; Granada Television for loaning us the services of the Congress Co-ordinator, Vanessa Hinton; Southern Television for the reception in the Starlit Room; Sony (U.K.) Ltd. for the loan of the video equipment used during the sessions at the Learning Resources Centre; Samuelson Film Services for the loan of the projection television system, the 35mm portable projector and two exhibits for the Early Brighton Film Makers exhibition; Kodak Ltd. for the dinner at the Kodak Museum; Image Transform, Rank Video Services, Colour Video Services and Technicolor for making U-matic cassettes of our unidentified films; the Brighton Council for hosting the reception at the Royal Pavilion; Visnews for arranging a visit to their library; the Learning Resources Centre for hosting our two sessions on videotape; the Brighton Museum for providing the venue for our exhibition on Early Brighton Film Makers; the Brighton Film Theatre for giving us a home for our symposia and screenings; the National Film Theatre for providing lunch and the Institute's Information and Documentation Department for providing tea on Thursday, 1st June; Film Availability Services and the Press Office for their input of resources for publicity, and the Institute as a whole for its sympathetic support of the Congress.

As for individuals, the list is even longer. I would like to thank Robin Scott, Peter Tigwell, Alistair Knox, John Goss and Anne Hanford of the B.B.C.; Sir Denis Forman at Granada Television; Paul Bryers and Jeremy Wallington at Southern Television; Brian Coe of the Kodak Museum; Mr. T. MacArthur of Sony (U.K.) Ltd.; David Samuelson of Samuelson Film Services; Pam Turner of Visnews; Leslie Warshker of Image Transform; Len Richardson and Fred Nunny of Rank Video Centre; Howard Manley of Colour Video Services; Ron Egerton of Technicolor; Clive Hewitt, Roderick Snell, Ian Spalding and David Sharpe of the Learning Resources Centre; Dr. Duncan Simpson and Alison Packer of the Brighton Museum; Bryan Brown, who gave us our grand image, and Pat Flynn, who painted the hoarding outside the Brighton Film Theatre and the Theatre tea room; James Ferman for assisting us with censorship problems; John Huntley for his advice on the programme "Brighton and the Cinema"; John King for the loan of the slide projector; Stan Hibbert and John Morton of the Musicians' Union and the Performers' Alliance; Jim Higgins and Judy Gardner of C.I.C.; Victoria Wegg-Prosor and Mary Thatcher for the loan of FILMS FROM THE RAJ; Clive Coulthas of the Imperial War Museum for his introduction to "Britain: Image and Reality"; Jill Johnson for acting as Executive Committee interpreter and for translating two papers; Brigitte van der Elst for her help and concern; and the staff of the National Film Archive and of the Institute for their hard work, their support, their understanding and their sympathy.
I would also like to thank the following for their assistance in mounting the season of films "Britain: Image and Reality":
